

NEWS TALK FOR SPEECH PATHOLOGISTS

A resource developed by speech pathologists to support preschool and junior primary teachers in developing speaking, listening & literacy skills

Developed by SA Department for Education and Child Development (DECD) Speech Pathology

News Talk for Speech Pathologists promotes the vital importance of a planned and structured approach to oral language programming. It describes how newstelling can be a major activity for developing key speaking and listening skills that are critical to children's success across all curriculum areas. A developmental perspective of newstelling encourages inclusive teaching practice for all children, including those with communication difficulties.

This interactive CD provides a dynamic workshop ready for speech pathologists to present to teachers and a self-study package, which explores news telling in the classroom.

The workshop package contains:

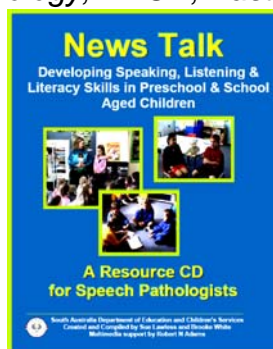

- Numerous video clips of children and teachers demonstrating news telling
- Videos demonstrating key teaching strategies and ideas on how to set up news telling
- Case studies and activities
- Workshop handouts
- Ready to use, colourful visual strategies and checklists for tracking individual progress

There is also a self-study package for teachers that contains comments from teachers in the field, voiceovers explaining key concepts, short interactive quizzes to test key ideas and extra video footage.
